Dr. Jeet Joshee Elected as 2022 President-Elect of the Association of International Education Administrators

Durham, NC (November 29, 2021)—The Association of International Education Administrators (AIEA) is pleased to announce that Dr. Jeet Joshee has been elected as the organization’s next President-Elect. Following his nomination to the 2021 leadership ballot and a vote by association members, Dr. Joshee will serve as AIEA’s President-Elect in 2022, President in 2023, and Immediate Past President in 2024 (during which term he will also serve as the chair of the Annual AIEA Conference).

Dr. Jeet Joshee currently serves as the Associate Vice President for International Education and Global Engagement and Dean of the College of Continuing and Professional Education at California State University, Long Beach. His past leadership experience at AIEA includes chairing the Membership Committee and serving on AIEA’s Board. Dr. Joshee’s teaching and research areas include international development education and culture studies. At the University of Connecticut, he developed several intensive, short-term international culture study programs and led student groups to Nepal, Cuba, and Thailand. His previous experience includes work with educators from many foreign countries, with the US Peace Corps and as a consultant to the World Bank and several USAID projects.

In his vision statement for the leadership ballot, Dr. Joshee writes that “The impact of the pandemic has been devastating to international education than any other sector. Needless to say, there is so much more work to be done in the months and years ahead. The role of the SIO will be pivotal in steering our institutions to meet its global mission. As President, I will work with all stakeholders in our efforts to enhance professional resources and networking. Despite the setbacks, I strongly believe that the promise of international education remains strong - creating unparalleled learning experiences for our students, engaging faculty, and addressing global issues.”
About AIEA:

The Association of International Education Administrators (AIEA), a membership organization formed in November 1982, is composed of institutional leaders engaged in advancing the international dimensions of higher education. The purposes of the Association are to:

- Provide an effective voice on significant issues within international education at all levels,
- Improve and promote international education programming and administration within institutions of higher education,
- Establish and maintain a professional network among international education institutional leaders,
- Cooperate in appropriate ways with other national and international groups having similar interests.
